KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Driss BENLARBI est professeur d'universités habilitées à la Faculté des Lettres et des Sciences Humaines, à l'Université Moulay Ismail, à Meknès, au Maroc et membre du Groupe de Recherche « Religion et Société ».

En 2013, il obtient son doctorat en sociologie de l'Université Mohamed V de Rabat, au Maroc, et en 2018, il obtient son habilitation universitaire en sociologie (HDR), à l'Université Moulay Ismail, Meknès, Maroc.

Ses domaines d'intérêt sont la sociologie familiale, la sociologie scolaire, les mouvements sociaux et la sociologie communautaire, le professeur Benlarbi consacrant une partie de ses recherches sociologiques à l'étude de la communauté

Amazigh au Maroc. Au cours de sa carrière, le professeur Benlarbi a publié une série d'études sociologiques: Lecture et analyse de la pensée de Fatima Mernisi : La dynamique relationnelle entre homme et femme à travers le livre « Au-delà du voile, le sexe comme ingénierie sociale » in: Rhétoriques, Discours et Images ouvrage collectif, publié sous la direction de El Mostafa Aboulhassani et Mohammed Bennaser, à la maison d'édition Publications de l'ESTM en 2016 ; Mouvements amazighs en Afrique du Nord, élites, expressions et défis (Maroc, Algérie, Tunisie, Libye et Égypte), publié sous la direction de Nacer Djabi, à la maison d'édition Al-Shehab, Alger en 2018; « Printemps arabe et l'exception marocaine: réalité ou illusion » in : Un acte d'hospitalité ne peut être que poétique, Mélanges offerts à Bernadette Rey Mimoso-Ruiz, ouvrage collectif, sous la direction de Mokhtar BELARBI, publié à la maison d'édition Les Presses Universitaires de Meknès en 2018 ; « Le mouvement culturel Amazigh au Maroc : le processus d'une transformation » (le cas du Moyen – Atlas), publié à la maison d'édition Galati University Press, Roumanie, en 2019 et « Identité de la marge : approche anthropologique du Rif », publié dans la Revue Arabe de Sociologie (Centre for Arab Unity Studies), Liban, en 2019.

Le professeur Benlarbi a participé à de nombreux projets de développement communautaire et social au fil des ans, faisant partie de diverses structures associatives. Nous rappelons ici sa qualité de membre participant aux travaux des ateliers des « premières consultations de la ville » initiés dans le cadre des actions de l'Agenda 21 du Programme des Nations Unies pour le Développement (PNUD), un programme d'actions définissant les objectifs et les moyens de mise en œuvre du développement durable du territoire dans les pays en développement, calitatea de membre de la commission technique du forum national de la ville (FNV), membre du groupe de recherche « Religion et Société », membre au Centre de recherche en économie appliquée pour le développement (CREAD) en Algérie, membre au centre de recherche « Think » pour études et recherches stratégiques et la qualité de membre au Centre « Ibn Khaldoun » d'études et de recherche sur les valeurs et la société.

L'expérience de recherche et l'implication du professeur Benlarbi dans la communauté lui ont donné l'appréciation de ses collègues, et il a été élu Directeur du Département de Sociologie de la faculté dans laquelle il travaille, un poste qu'il a occupé jusqu'à cette année.

Ciprian Ioan STREZA is a researcher and professor at the Faculty of Orthodox Theology in Sibiu, his field of specialization being Liturgical Theology. He also has interests in Patrology, Dogmatic and Systematic Theology, Missiology and Ecumenism. Throughout his teaching career, Ciprian Streza has published a series of scientific books and articles, of which we recall: The Eucharistic Anaphora of Saint Basil the Great. History, text, comparative analysis, theological commentary, published in Sibiu, in 2013; Realism and liturgical symbolism in Mystagogy of Saint Maxim the Confessor (Text, translation, theological commentary), Sibiu, 2013; Professor Ene Braniste – the servant, teacher and theologian. Biobibliographical presentation of his personality, published in Sibiu, in 2013; The Holy Secret of Baptism – between the symbolism of the baptismal ritual and the realism of the mysterious work of grace, Sibiu, 2013 and The origin and evolution of the eucharistic anaphoral in the apostolic and postapostolic era, also published in Sibiu, in 2014.

Ovidiu Cristian NEDU, researcher at Paul Păltănea History Museum of Galați and also lecturer at the University of Bucharest and Dunărea de Jos University of Galați, has been for long interested in Indian religions, especially in their Idealistic tenets (classical and pre-classical Vedanta and Yogacara Buddhism). Along with several translations from Upanisads and Vedanta, he published The Idealistic Metaphysics of Vijnanavada Buddhism (Paideia, Bucharest 2013), Selfhood and Knowledge in Yogacara Buddhism (History Museum Publisher, Galati, 2019). More recently, he has also focused on modern approaches to religion, such as the Humanistic perspective of Fr. Schleiermacher upon Christianity, that he depicted in Friedrich Schleiermacher. The Christian Liberal Theology (Herald, Bucharest, 2014). Moreover, in several recent essays, considering the human being from a deterministic and naturalistic standpoint, he tried to infer a corresponding spirituality.

Constantin ARDELEANU is a historian and professor at the Faculty of History, Philosophy and Theology at "Dunarea de Jos" University of Galati. Constantin Ardeleanu is specialized in the Modern History of Romania, his main research interests being the economic and political relations developed by the Romanian Countries in the "Lower Danube" region, between the 18th and 20th centuries. For his scientific work, Professor Ardeleanu received various distinctions, such as the "Nicolae Iorga" Prize of the Romanian Historical Sciences Society (2014), the "A. D. Xenopol" Prize of the Romanian Academy, awarded in 2010, for the book Evolution of British Economic and Political Interests at the mouths of the Danube (1829–1914), published by Istros Publishing House – Braila Museum, in 2008, the National Archives Award and the title of The young researcher of the year 2010. All these constitute important recognitions by the academic community. The title of "Professor Bologna", awarded in 2009 by the National Alliance of Student Organizations in Romania, also means the recognition of a dedicated teaching activity.

Daniel GĂLĂȚANU est professeur des universités à la Faculté des Lettres de l'Université Dunarea de Jos de Galati, et membre du Groupe de Recherche Identités et Cultures de l'Université Le Havre Normandie, France. Il est spécialiste de langue et de littérature française et universelle, de culture et civilisation française et européenne, de sémiotique générale et appliquée, et de relations internationales, et il a donné des cours de littérature française et universelle et de culture et civilisation française, en tant que visiting professor en France métropolitaine (Université Le Havre Normandie), mais également dans les DOM-TOM (Université des Antilles, Pointe-à Pitre et Université de La Réunion, Saint-Denis), à l'Université de Huelva, Espagne, et à l'Université de Guadalajara, Mexique. Tout au long de sa carrière, il a publié de nombreux ouvrages, livres et articles scientifiques en Roumanie, France, Allemagne et Etats-Unis. Voici quelques livres qui l'ont consacré dans la communauté scientifique et académique: La cité dans la poésie française moderne de Baudelaire à Apollinaire (2^{ème} édition, revue, corrigée et augmentée), publié à la maison d'édition Presses Académiques Francophones, en 2017; Urmuz, Pages bizarres – 2^{ème} édition (traduction du roumain et notes), publié à la maison d'édition Presses Académiques Francophones, en 2015; Préromantisme et Romantisme dans la poésie française des XVIII^e et XIX^e siècles, publié à la maison d'édition Presses Académiques Francophones en 2015; Baudelaire – poète moderne. La hantise de la prose – étude critique en français, Éditions ACADEMICA, Galati, 2002 ; L'Élégie du bonheur – vers, édition bilingue – Éditions GENEZE, Galati, 2000; Fanfarlode Charles Baudelaire – une traduction (pour la première fois en roumain), étude introductive et notes, édition bilingue, publié à la maison d'Éditions GENEZE, Galati en 2001.
